Tin House is an award-winning literary magazine that publishes new writers as well as more established voices; essays as well as fiction, poetry, and interviews. "A unique take on what it means to go home again." –Kristan Higgins, New York Times bestselling author The lake is crystal blue, the hills roll for miles, and breaking news travels via the Methodist prayer chain. But don't let the postcard fool you. Coldwater Cove, Oklahoma, leavens its small-town charm with plenty of Ozark snark. For Lacy Evans, returning to flyover country is the definition of failure. She had everything she wanted—an award-winning design firm, a chic city condo, a handsome, aristocratic almost-fiancé. Then her boyfriend ran off with her receptionist and her clients' money. Now she's out of business and crashing on her parents' couch. When she slides into a booth at the Green Apple Grill, she's feeling lower than a worm's belly. But Lacy's old classmate Jacob Tyler is happy to see her. Coldwater's football hero came back from Afghanistan short part of a leg and some peace of mind, but he's counting his blessings, and Lacy could be one of them. Then there's her ex, Daniel, wearing a sheriff's badge and a wedding ring, but looking like young summer love. And a host of unlikely serendipities: the selfless do-gooders who sneak around taming curmudgeons and constructing second chances. The Fighting Marmots. The sprawling, take-no-prisoners Bugtussle clan. Lacy thought she knew her hometown, and herself. She just wanted to get on her feet and keep running. But the longer she stays, the more she finds to change her mind. . . "Readers of sweet romance will fall in love with Coldwater Cove. Lexi Eddings's talent shines in this edgy, fresh story." –Kristan Higgins, New York Times bestselling author

Early thirties. Much taller than her height of five foot five. Black hair. Black leather jacket. Tough jaw. Straight nose. Eyes of midnight blue. His eyes swept over the diner, seeming to take everything in at an instant. And then he saw her. Honor froze. It wasn't the guy from this morning. But he was here for her. She knew it! For a second she couldn't breathe, then she couldn't stop. I think I'm hyperventilating. "Here, sweetie." Betty appeared with a paper bag. "Breathe into this." Honor sank back against the leatherette booth cushions, clutching the paper bag to her face, trying to slow her breathing. "Can I help you?" Betty asked the stranger. Out of the corner of her eye, Honor saw Betty turn to the man who had entered - no, strode into - the diner. The man who had come for her. "I think I've found who I'm looking for," the man replied, his eyes fixed on Honor. He took another step toward the booth, but Betty blocked his path. "Not so fast, handsome. Give her some space." Honor concentrated on breathing into the paper bag. In, out. In, out. She did not want to think about anything else. Finally, her breathing calmed and she felt able to take away the bag from her lips. Until she saw him watching her every movement. "Honor Crenshaw?" He flashed a badge at her. She glimpsed the word Marshal on it. "I'm Max Kirkson. I'm here to take you back to Laramie so you can testify."
