Winner of the National Book Award • Washington Post Best Book of the Year • A New York Times Notable Book From one of the most revered novelists of our time, an exquisitely told story of a boy on the cusp of manhood who seeks justice and understanding in the wake of a terrible crime that upends and forever transforms his family. One Sunday in the spring of 1988, a woman living on a reservation in North Dakota is attacked. The details of the crime are slow to surface because Geraldine Coutts is traumatized and reluctant to relive or reveal what happened, either to the police or to her husband, Basil, and thirteen-year-old son, Joe. In one day, Joe's life is irrevocably transformed. He tries to heal his mother, but she will not leave her bed and slips into an abyss of solitude. Increasingly alone, Joe finds himself thrust prematurely into an adult world for which he is ill prepared. While his father, a tribal judge, endeavors to wrest justice from a situation that defies his efforts, Joe becomes frustrated with the official investigation and sets out with his trusted friends, Cappy, Zack, and Angus, to get some answers of his own. Their quest takes them first to the Round House, a sacred space and place of worship for the Ojibwe. And this is only the beginning. National Bestseller New York Times Notable Book Chicago Tribune, Christian Science Monitor, The Washington Post and Los Angeles Times Best Book of the Year Lark and Termite is a rich, wonderfully alive novel about seventeen year old Lark and her brother, Termite, living in West Virginia in the 1950s. Their mother, Lola, is absent, while their aunt, Nonie, raises them as her own, and Termite's father, Corporal Robert Leavitt, is caught up in the early days of the Korean War. Award-winning author Jayne Anne Phillips intertwines family secrets, dreams, and ghosts in a story about the love that unites us all. Sparrows are as complicated as they are common. This is an essential guide to identifying 76 kinds, along with a fascinating history of human interactions with them. What, exactly, is a sparrow? All birders (and many non-birders) have essentially the same mental image of a pelican, a duck, or a flamingo, and a guide dedicated to waxwings or kingfishers would need nothing more than a sketch and a single sentence to satisfactorily identify its subject. Sparrows are harder to pin down. This book covers one family (Passerellidae), which includes towhees and juncos, and 76 members of the sparrow clan. Birds have a human history, too, beginning with their significance to native cultures and continuing through their discovery by science, their taxonomic fortunes and misfortunes, and their prospects for survival in a world with ever less space for wild creatures. This book includes not just facts and measurements, but stories--of how birds got their names and how they were discovered--of their entanglement with human history. Michael Freeman our top digital photography author and a worldwide name presents the most comprehensive book yet on black-and-white digital photography. Oversized, beautifully illustrated, and far-reaching in scope, this guide is destined to be a standard reference for years to come. Freeman covers all aspects of black-and-white digital photography: its fine art tradition as well as its techniques. Learn how to see and expose in black and white, digitally convert color to monochrome, and develop a black-and-white digital workflow. Explore creative choices and how to interpret various subjects most skillfully in monochrome. Finally, get an expert's advice on printing and displaying black-and-white photographs to best effect. " This spectacular new edition of the best-selling Helm field guide of all time covers all resident, migrant and vagrant species found in Kenya, Tanzania, Uganda, Rwanda and Burundi. Over 1,300 species are illustrated with full details of all the plumages and major races likely to be encountered. Concise text describes the identification, status, range, habits and voice, with fully updated range maps for each species. This authoritative book will not only be an indispensable guide to the visiting birder, but also a vital tool for those engaged in work to conserve and study the avifauna of the region - East Africa shelters a remarkable diversity of birds, many seriously endangered with small and vulnerable ranges. "This beautiful book is shot through with such tenderness and humanity, such love and courage and beauty and hope, that it feels almost like a prayer." —Margaret Renkl, author of Late Migrations A timely, powerful story of survival set in the not-too-distant future, reminding us to always hold on to hope, even in the worst of times. With fires devastating much of America, Lark and his family first leave their home in Maryland for Maine. But as the country increasingly falls under the grip of religious nationalism, it becomes clear that nowhere is safe, not just from physical disasters but also persecution. The family secures a place on a crowded boat headed to Ireland, the last place on earth rumored to be accepting American refugees. Upon arrival, it turns out that the safe harbor of Ireland no longer exists either—and Lark, the sole survivor of the trans-Atlantic voyage, must disappear into the countryside. As he runs for his life, Lark finds two equally lost and desperate souls: one of the last remaining dogs, who becomes his closest companion, and a fierce, mysterious woman in search of her lost son. Together they form a makeshift family and attempt to reach Glendalough, a place they believe will offer protection. But can any community provide the safety that they seek? Lark Ascending is a moving and unforgettable story of friendship and bravery, and even more, a story of the ongoing fight to protect our personal freedoms and find our shared humanity, from a writer at the peak of his powers. Could there be an any better moment for this book to come out? I think not. We are rendered with an unprecedented situation. The capricious virus bodes ill for those who aren't attuned to their wellbeing. And being so, our surest bet in the fight against this pandemic with unmitigated transmogrification is our robust health- both mental and physical. Hence, the subject was chosen for this book. We all know that this too shall pass and, in its passing, the humanity shall be left with an irreversible alteration made to their daily lives which, if employed to our advantage may work wonder for us. The book that you are holding in your hands shall prove to be instrumental in this quest for maintaining or regaining your well-being. Neelam Mankar, the author of "Fit as a Fiddle" is a fitness enthusiast who has lived a life committed to health, wealth, and good relations. This commitment has taken her through some amazing memories, both, personally and professionally. Working for thirty-four years in a prestigious government organisation, viz. Reserve Bank of India and National Bank of Agriculture & Development, has made her an expert Financial Coach. Abundance is one of her foremost values and she believes in creating an abundant life for herself and her clients. She is also a Certified Life Coach. A globe-trotter at heart, she has travelled to 24 countries. One of the motivations in all her visits has been to explore the fitness and wellness culture around the world. Keeping herself updated with new and upcoming fitness trends has been a relentless pursuit for her. Neelam's achievements say it all. Though she is in her golden years, in 2019 she effortlessly conquered the Tiger's Nest in Bhutan, which even a person in their twenties would find difficult. In 2018, she took part in the Guinness Book of records Plankathon event held in Pune, India. One must say, a person who has lived as good as without a single pill all her life surely has earned the right to write a book on health. I have known Neelam for a couple of years now and I can assure you that she practises what she preaches. Talking about Sreeti A. Amonkar, the author of "Happy as a Lark", with over twenty-five years of broad experience under her belt, she is hailed as one of the foremost communication skills trainers in the industry right now. One has to only Google her out to read about all the remarkable things that her students, clients and ex-employers have to say about her. What allured her to visit Bhutan in 2019 was to meet the citizens of the world's happiest nation. Her happiness knew no bounds, the very moment she stepped onto the land of happiness. Her take on the entire visit to Bhutan was that material possessions hardly constitute for real happiness. I have known Sreeti for quite a few years now. It's not that her life is perfect. On the contrary, just like everybody else's, she has her share of joys and sorrows. What sets her apart is that she always exudes happiness. Her happiness is contagious. That's why I feel she is the best person to write on the subject of happiness. I'm sure that this contagion of happiness will be passed
